The solution for modern homes with hoods with external exhaust. Often, the ventilation system in modern homes has a limited ability to care for unbalanced operation, which is why the system cannot supply sufficient air when using the hood. THERMEX has therefore further developed Pro Link Basic to also include a motor-controlled damper which is connected to the air side of the ventilation system. When the ventilation system cannot supply sufficient air, the damper opens automatically and ensures that the air exchange in the home is balanced.
