Thermex Gemini III 60cm in white with switch is one of the market's most cost-effective extractor hoods for communal extraction and built-in installation in overhead cabinets. The design of the extractor hood provides maximum grease capture with minimal airflow.

In many construction projects, price is often of crucial importance when choosing an extractor hood solution for multiple apartments, while also needing to be a shared ventilation solution. You get a stylish and durable solution that budget managers will be pleased with with the Thermex Central Gemini III. Light and dampers are operated either by sliding the extraction part in or out, or by using the concealed buttons. It has a built-in switch so it can cooperate with the ventilation system.
