Thermex Airslim 60 cm white is the market's most flexible hood for shared exhausts. The hood's aerodynamic design provides maximum absorption with a minimum of air flow.

Thermex Airslim is a newly developed kitchen hood for apartments with communal facilities. With all its possibilities, it can be adapted to the needs of all new buildings in terms of size and color. It has an infinitely adjustable damper, electronics and damper motor of industrial quality, as well as a relay output that enables the hood to cooperate with other ventilation installations in the building. The product was developed in Denmark and produced from extra strong steel and it is powder coated for extra long durability. It is extra easy to install. Tested and recognized by the authorities for communal flues.
